Unite your team through the joy of collective electronic music-making!

Music has the power to unite people across cultural, language and generational divides. Harness the creative energy of Berlin's celebrated electronic music scene for your team through a unique and non-competitive music-making workshop, where participants of all levels make and share their very own tracks in a supportive and empowering environment.

Through one to two hours of music-making, participants will create their own short electronic tracks, learning about the basics of audio-production through supported experimentation and play. They will then share the music they've made in a celebratory and non-critical listening session with their colleagues.

Benefits: Develop leadership and communication skills through a shared learning experience. Unleash your teammates' creative expression through music.

Walk away with your very own track and enjoy the bonding and networking experience with colleagues through a shared experience.

Number of participants: 8 to 14

Duration: 2-4 hours (negotiable)

Prerequisites: none

Prices: starting at 1200€ (net)

Technical Requirements for in-person workshops:

- Windows or Mac laptop with wired headphones for each participant
- Meeting room with seating and power for all participants
- Projector / Screen with laptop connectivity
- Speakers with 3.5mm Aux Connection
